Virtual Destinations It's a small hobby (duck?), but I love planes and was fascinated with the Cessna T50. So, I flew over 76,000 nautical miles (150,000 km) on the T50 in 2014 alone. (My first one was an inherited '64 Piper PA32.) So, I figured, here is some info I have found helpful in learning how to fly the T50 and my other PC-14. There are several ways to get you into the pilot's seat of a T50 or PC-14. My experience was with: 1. Garmin G1000 Pilot's Guide 3.2 for Windows 7, Home Premium, 64-bit 2. Simulator Pilot's Guide for Windows 6.0, 3. Cessna T50 and PC-14 Flight Simulator 2012. There is also this one I heard about: 4. Rockwell Collins Falcon Pro Flight Simulator (PC-12) Pilot's Guide 5. Cessna T50/PC-14 Flight Simulator 2013 My Trainer flights have been in Scenery A-14, B-14, and B-11. (The A-14 has less detail, the B has more detail in the near and far planes.) Here is a list of differences in the different flyers: 1. The PC-12/45 and T50/PC-14 are similar in size, design, and ground handling operations, but they have very different simulators. They are essentially two different programs. 2. The T50/PC-14 has a combined fuel efficiency of 550 nautical miles per gallon (1285.9 km/l) while the PC-12/45 is around 477 miles per gallon (1119.3 km/l). 3. Although the T50/PC-14 has a cruise speed of 100 knots, the PC-12/45 has a cruise speed of 115 knots. 4. The PC-12/45 and T50/PC-14 have the same maximum G limit but are not interchangeable, although they work in tandem. 5. The T50/PC-14 has a great differential minimum and maximum G limits so that your roll and yaw are not restricted. The PC-12/45 has a fixed minimum and maximum G limits. 6. The T50/PC-14 has a full glass cockpit. G1000 PC Trainer For Cessna NAV III
