In addition, FIFA 20 introduced innovations to cover attacks from a new angle, as well as an improved ball physics and timing system. In FIFA 18, a new attacking formation and motion system allowed each player to influence the play from any position on the pitch. In FIFA 20, you can trigger new, innovative attacking patterns with more situational awareness. The method of formation used to complete a set move depends on which direction you want the ball to travel in. Now it's up to you how the attack unfolds. In FIFA 20, the in-game Confetti adds a new visual and auditory effect on the pitch. The specific visual effect is based on the type of attacking pattern (shot, lob, or pass) that is taken to create a unique look depending on the direction of each pattern. As in FIFA 19, the ball physics system is also a critical part of FIFA 20. During a challenge in a free kick, you will find the ball travels faster than in FIFA 19. The impact received by the ball has also been improved, while the unpredictability of passes and shots has been heightened. To further enhance your game, FIFA 20 introduces player tweaks including positional overrides and sprint acceleration. FIFA 20 features 19 teams, each with new kits and new signatures. FIFA 20 also features improved squad update schedules. The new model will ensure players will be ready for matches later in the season, creating more realistic competition.
