His name is Claude Roudier and his site is C4DThemes: When I first looked into software that could create a LOD outside my Flash knowledge base, I wanted a cheap option. I had also heard about C4D and thought it would make a good option. The solution I came up with is the first two tutorials: 1) CrazyLod showing the overall idea and how to create your own LOD 2) Advanced CrazyLod showing how to create more complex LOD. This tutorial is more in depth and includes the creation of a more complex LOD over 5-7 stages. Although this is a good tutorial, I have a more in-depth version of this technique at and you can find a more in-depth explanation at with some blender options available. I hope this will come in handy for you, and maybe save you some time and headache doing it yourself. A full C4D tutorial to create lightfields with the LOD plugin, the two main stages are: 1) Creating the LOD project with each part of it's data inside the default folder 2) Reducing the LOD Here is the first video: Full tutorial: aa67ecbc25

Prayed by Little Katie Carroll for her father who had just passed away from cancer. For sharing this message, Katie was invited to the White House to be honored by Michelle Obama Together, we shared stories of kindness and learned that no matter how big or small our losses are, we never lose the love and faith in God. We also learned that the strength and generosity of parents and grandparents can be the greatest source of support for a young child. Thank you to the White House, First Lady Michelle Obama, and our specially invited guests for making this event and little Katie's story all the more meaningful."
